Attorney - The Widow Protests

LONG RANGE LAMONT BOOM.

WHEN HE AND HILL COLLOGUE O' SUN-DAYS, THERE MUST BE POLITICS.

Stone (of Missouri) Naminates Lament for Governor (of New York) to Succeed Odell -Nay. Nay, Sing the Undershot Wheels of Millbrook - More About Shunting Bryan, The recent visits of the Hon. David B. Hill to the country home of the Hon. Daniel S. Lamont at Millbrook, near Poughkeepsie, have set Democratio politicians to speculating. One waggled his left ear yesterday and said: "Uncle Davy and Col. Dan getting together and not talking politics? Did they say that? Yes? Well, b'gum, turn out the lights; the millennium has come."

The Hon. William J. Stone, former Governor of Missouri, was at the Hoffman House four weeks ago. It was his first appearance since the Bryan cataclysm last fall. He ordered only a slab of headcheese and a mug of beer (these are not campaign times), picked his teeth, cocked his head and between picks said to the representative of THE SUN:

"Say, my son, what do you hear abou Lamont for Governor of New York next

"Not a peep." "Hey?"

"Not a word." "Just keep your earflaps pinned to your rejoined Mr. Stone, "and watch skull." out.

Since then Mr. Hill has passed three Sundays at Col. Lamont's country home, Millbrook. Col. Lamont in a running conversation on general subjects with the same representative of THE SUN with whom ex-Gov. Stone talked, said last Friday afternoon before departing for Milibrook:

"I had a very pleasant call from ex-Gov. Stone of Missouri the other day. He's looking well, isn't he?" Col. Lamont was not aware of ex-Gov.

Stone's vaticination concerning himself and the Governorship was not mentioned. Mr. Hill always says when he comes to New York that he is here on "law business. Col. Lamont in the old days when he was private secretary to President Cleveland used to come from Washington to New York only "on shopping trips." Those shopping trips were productive, incidentally, of politics, and these "law visits" of Mr. Hill may be of the same sort. Anyway, the Hill-Lamont talks are becoming interesting to Democrats. In 1898 Col. Lamont was frequently suggested by Democrats as sound timber for the Governor's chair. Again in 1900 his name came up. Col. Lamont caused it to be known (he isn't much of a talker in newspapers) that he could not be considered for this great office; he had spent eight years of his life in Washington and must, if possible, get together a competence for his family. Col. Lamont's salary as private secretary to President Cleveland was $5,000 a year and as Secretary of War in Mr. Cleveland's second Administration $8,000 a year. For the eight years his income was $52,000, a very insignificant sum with which to pass through eight years of Washington

Certain Democrats said yesterday they wanted Col. Lamont for Governor next year. Col. Lamont said:

"Nothing in that. I tell you Mr. Hill in his chats with me at Millbrook has only ed general topics and old times. He likes, and so do I, to swap stories of Tilden. Don't imagine anything. I am happy, comfortable and contented as I

Mr. Hill and Col. Lamont were political lieutenants of Samuel J. Tilden, who to circles as the most efficient and thorough organizer the Democratic party has had. Certain Democrats said that Col. Lamont would make the strongest kind of a candidate for Governor for them next year. They added that all sorts and conditions of Democrats would favor him; ditions of Democrats would favor him; that he had not attracted antagonisms in his party and they wound up by insisting that "something's going on." A year is no time at all in State politics.

It was just about this time a year ago that Col. Bryan had his controversy with Democratic national leaders over the platform to be adopted by the Kansas City Convention. A month before the convention (the delegates were nailed down for his renomination) Col. Bryan issued a dozen or more invitations to leading Democrats to meet him at Lincoln and discuss the platform.

Mr. Hill received one of these invitations. He accepted and hurried through Kansas City to Col. Bryan's home. At that interview Mr. Hill urged Col. Bryan not to insist that "free coinage of silver at 16 to 1" be incorporated in the Democratic national platform about to be adopted at Kansas City. Mr. Hill pleaded with Col. Bryan "not to make it difficult for the Eastern Democrats to support you." Col. Bryan was obdurate. Mr. Hill journeyed back to Kansas City and reported to his old friend, Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He also told Richard Croker the result of his visit to Lincoln.

A conference of more than ordinary interest was then called to meet in the the result of his visit to Lincoln.

A conference of more than ordinary interest was then called to meet in the rooms of Col. James M. Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman for Pennsylvania. There were present other than Col. Guffey, Chairman Jones, ex-Gov. Stone, vice-chairman of the committee and National Committeeman for Missouri; J. G. Johnson, National Committeeman for Kansas, and Daniel J. Campau, National Committeeman for Michigan. All were strenuously opposed to the specific mention of "free silver at 16 to 1" in the platform. They declared that Col. Bryan should be satisfied with a general reiteration of the satisfied with a general reiteration of the money plank adopted at Chicago by the Democratic National Convention in 1896.

This decision reached, they rushed off "Deacon" Kerr, former clerk of the House of Representatives, to Col. Bryan at Lincoln. Meanwhile the platform makers ceased work. "Deacon" Kerr labored with Col. Bryan. He made no more progress than did Mr. Hill. He sent word over the long-distance telephone from Lincoln to Kansas

City:
"No go; he wont have it. It must be a When Mr. Kerr returned to Kansas City he furthermore reported to the conferees that Col. Bryan had said:

"Tell them if they don't want to nominate me on the specific platform of 18 to 1 they need not. There is no law to compel them to take me. There are a dozen men in the convention whom they may nominate. But I wont accept the nomination except on a specific plank of 16 to 1." The conferees to a man were disconsolate.

The conferees to a man were disconsolate. The New York delegation was called together to select representatives for the various committees of the convention. For many years Mr. Hill had been New York's member on the Committee on Resolutions or Platform. Mr. Croker, with the aid of Kings, Erie and Rensselaer, controlled the delegation. He defeated Mr. Hill and made Augustus Van Wyck New York's member on the Committee on Resolutions. Mr. Hill was an ardent candidate for the place.

for the place.
"Why did you do that, Croker?" asked Mr. Hill after the delegation adjourned. "Bryan didn't want you," said Croker

The vote of the fifty members of the Committee on Resolutions was 26 for a specific declaration in favor of free silver at 16 to 1 and 24 against, the Territory of Hawaii casting the deciding vote in favor. Hawaii, like other Territories, has no vote in the licotoral Collega. The vote in detail was:

Total, 24.
The total vote for Bryan in New York State last election day was 678,386; in 1898

State last election day was 678,386; in 1896 t was 551,518 Cleveland's vote in the State was, in 1884.

Cleveland's vote in the State was, in 1894, 563,154; 1888, 631,757 and 1892, 654,908.

In view of recent events in the Democratic State Convention of Ohio, where Bryan and free silver were completely ignored, it was announced by competent Democratic authority yesterday that Bryan and free silver are to be turned down together in all the States represented in that vote of the twenty-four members of the Committee on Resolutions at Kansas City; that Tammany in its Mayoratic this fail Committee on Resolutions at Kansas City; that Tammany in its Mayoraity this fall will not in its city convention platform mention 16 to 1, and that neither will the Democratic State Convention next year, which nominates a full State ticket from Governor down, have a word to say on the subject.

JUSTICE WOODWARD IN BUFFALO.

Report That Visit Is in Interests of Ex-Ger Black's Candidacy for Senate.

BUPPALO, July 16.-Justice John Woodward of the Supreme Court, assigned to the Brooklyn Appellate Division, came to Brooklyn Appellate Division, came to Buffalo to-day. He will spend a few days at his home in Chautauqua county.

It was reported that his visit was in the interest of the Hon. Frank S. Black's candidacy for the United States Senate to succeed the Hon. Thomas C. Platt. Justice Woodward declined to be quoted on that subject.

COMPTROLLER ENIGHT FOR MAYOR. Renewed Talk That Buffale Republicans Will Make Him Their Candidate.

press of the city of Buffalo and other promitent Republicans and business men of Buffalo was not lightly to be ignored. While he did not care to put himself in the position of accepting a nomination until it was tendered him by the city convention, he was not prepared to refuse it at this time.

Comptroller Knight's political career has been peculiar in one respect. He was a Supervisor for five years, and was elected City Treasurer of Buffalo while he still had a year to serve as Supervisor. Then he was elected City Treasurer twice and when he still had a year to serve in that office. The Comptroller's friends insist that his election as Mayor of Buffalo next fall would be only a stepping stone to his nomination for Governor in 1904 and that in the event of Mr. Knight's nomination for Governor, then it would be but according to the rule which has followed him in his political career in that he would be called to the higher office of Governor a year before his term as Mayor would expire, on Dec. 31, 1905.

Mr. Knight last was elected City Treasurer of Buffalo by over 1,000 majority, while at the same time the present Democratic Mayor of that city received over 8,000 majority. When he ran for Comptroller last fall Mr. Knight went 3,000 votes ahead of President McKinley in Buffalo. Should Mr. Knight be elected Mayor of Buffalo he would serve as Comptroller until next Jan. 1, when Gov. Odeli would appoint a Comptroller to 6H the unexpired term of a year.

GLEASONITES SPLIT.

Followers of Councilman Cassidy Too Strong for the Old Guard.

The late Mayor Glesson's political followers in Long Island City have split over the which side to support in th ing fight at the primaries. After Mr. Glea-son's death Thomas P. Burke, his attorney, was elected President of the P. J. Gleason League. Mr. Burke died a few days agas the result of a surgical operation and the eague met Monday night in the Gleason league met Monday night in the Gleason headquarters at 112 Front street, Long Island City, to choose a new leader. When the meeting was called to order it developed that a majority of those present favored taking sides with Councilman Joseph Cassidy in his fight against Richard Croker in Queens. The men who had always stood close to Mr. Gleason were against Cassidy and rad decided to nominate former Alderman Richard E. Kane for leader, but the opposition developed such strength that Kane declined to run and the Cassidy men nominated and elected Stephen McClancy. He had been the Secretary and his election to the higher office left another vacancy which was filled by the election of Thomas Penders.

which was filled by the election of Thomas Penders.

After the meeting the defeated side declared that they would meet next Monday night in the old place and form the P. J. Gleason Association. Miss Jessie Gleason, the only child of the Mayor, controls the building and it was stated last night that she would probably give the use of the rooms to her father's old followers and prevent the league from holding meetings there.

FORCED DADY TO YIELD. Formidable Opposition to His Leadership De velops at "Peace" Conference.

Col. Michael J. Dady, chairman of the Re publican Executive Committee in Brooklyn. had convincing proof last night in the so called peace conference that he has a hard job on his hands to retain the Republican leadership in the First Assembly district. All the representatives took part in the conference which was held at Republican headquarters in Joralemon street, in ex headquarters in Joralemon street, in executive session, with Col. Dady as chairman. On the calling of the roll objection was made to the seating of Dady's man from the Twelfth district of the First Ward, but having the necessary credentials he took his seat. Mr. Ketcham then spoke at length on the circumstances attending the contest in the district, and insisted as a matter of fair play that the controversy should be referred to a Committee on Credentials.

The formal motion for such a reference was defeated by the Dadyites by a majority of 8 or 9, but there was such a vigorous protest against this action by the anti-Dadyites that the vote was almost immediately reconsidered, and the motion was then adopted by a unanimous vote. Col. Dady demonstrated that he had a majority at his back, but discreetly decided not to provoke further hostilities for the present. A committee of seven was appointed to inquire into the Hogan-Platt contest, and pending its report the question of selecting the General Committee delegates will remain in abeyance.

WAKEMAN'S CLAN RALLIES. Flowers and Congratulations Mark His Retention of Office for Four Years.

Yesterday was the fourth anniversary Appraiser Wakeman's appointment to office. Some importers sent him flowers, but more who are not importers. The ten assistant appraisers convened themselves in solemn conclave and delegated two of their number to escort the appraiser to the session. Deputy Appraiser Wanmaker made a speech congratulating the appraiser that the importers who preferred charges against him had not succeeded in cutting short his term of office. The deputy appraiser included the following in his speech.

I may never have said to you what I am about to say. One of the great importers who did his level best to oust you about two years ago has since informed me with his own lips: "I thank you at thousand times for doing just what you did in stopping the invoice-as-you-please method of importing St. Gall embroideries. You hurt me like the devil at first. I made no money in my business for years, but now I am making money." speech congratulating the appraiser that

MURPHY MOVES 8 CAPTAINS

NOT WEATHER SHAKE-UP WHEN PO LICE WERE HOPING FOR QUIET.

Continuan George" McClusky Stops Up a Pog and Walsh of Harlem, Who's Sluggish, Col. Murphy Says, is Benished to Brock-lyn—Sorgt. Schulum Back in the East Side. Commissioner Murphy startled the Police Department yesterday by transferring sight captains and five sergeants. The shake-up was unexpected because with Justice Jerome on a vacation and the Committee of Fifteen having suspended hostilities, the department was hoping to be let alone in the hot weather. But the unexpected happened. Col. Murphy handed the list of transfers to the reporters at noon, just before starting for his summer home at Far Rockaway. The original announcement was changed a little later in the day and the transfers in detail stand as follows:

Name. From
Capi. McClusky. Charles street. East 120th street
Capi. England . City Hall . West 152d street
Capi. England . City Hall . West 152d street
Capi. E. Walsh. East 120th street. Flushing avenue
Capi. W. Thompson. Mercer street . Staten Island
Capi. Thomas . West 125th street . Mercer street
Capi. Martens . Central Park . Charles street
Capi. Hardy . Flushing av. Brooklyn . Newtown
Sargt. Corbett . West Twentieth st. Central Park
Sargt. Nally . Macdougal street . Staten Island
Sergt. Bonne . High Bridge. West Twentieth street
Sergt. Hurburt . Fifth street . Macdougal street
Sergt. Behulum . Staten Island . Fifth street

In the original announcement Capt. Martens who was transferred from the West 125th street station in the last shake-up was sent back to that precinct and Capt. Hogan, who has been solourning in distant Newtown was brought back to the Charles street station. Word came from Deputy Commissioner Devery's office at 4 o'clock that this arrangement had been reversed When Col. Murphy was asked the reason for the change he said that a mistake had been made when the transfers were first announced. Mulberry street was inclined o scoff at this explanation. Col. Murphy was not inclined to talk at length about the transfers. They were made for "police reasons" he said. He was asked if he didn't think that Capt. McClusky, whom Deputy Commissioner Devery on a memorable occasion termed "Chesty" had been put in a more desirable don't consider Capt. McClusky's transfer a promotion or a punishment," replied the Colonel.

Asked why Capt. Walsh had been banished from Harlem to Flushing avenue, Brooklyn, Col. Murphy said:
"I didn't consider Capt. Walsh active enough in that precinct. "Didn't he obey your orders?" was asked.

"It wasn't thet" said the Colonel. "Capt.
Walsh was sluggish. I thought another man would execute my orders more quickly. Mulberry street took its own Mulberry street took its own view of the transfers. One of the things that was said by the wise men of the Department was that Capt. McClusky is in favor again, though Coi Murphy is not believed to have the highest view of the captain's ability. Mr. Devery and Capt. McClusky went to the racetrack together not long ago and the captain's prospects are suppose to have been brighter since. Mulberry street credits the captain with having eaten very humble pie on that occasion. He is much better off in the East 120th street precinct under the wing of Street Cleaning Commissioner Nagle who is interested in things up there, than in Charles

Capt. Waish is supposed to have sorely Capt. Waish is supposed to have sorely offended somebody to be shunted to Brooklyn. He offended Mr. Devery recently by appearing at the police trials in half uniform but that was not a great misdeed. Mulberry street is wondering what he really did do.

The raiding of the poolroom under the Junction saloon may have brought trouble on Capt. Thomas, who was once Czar of the Tenderloin.

Capt. Hogan, who is brought back from he Tenderloin. Capt. Hogan, who is brought back from Newtown to handle the West 125th street station, was banished about five months ago for cause, and it is supposed that Col. Murphy thinks he has had enough. Capt. Martens has had his troubles since Capt. F. Norton Goddard got after him for permitting policy playing in the East Thirtyfifth street precinct. Charles street, wher he now takes charge, is quiet and easy. Capt. Thompson, who goes to Staten Island, probably preferred that for the summer and was sent there at his own request.

Capt. Samuel J. Hardy is the only Brook lyn captain affected in the shake-up. His transfer from the Flushing avenue station to the wilds of Newtown was a surprise to him and his friends. He was in companion to the Control Lead processed to the state of the control of the to him and his friends. He was in command of the Coney Island precinct last summer. The reported prevalence of policy shops in the Flushing avenue precinct recently may have had sometling to do with his removal. He has always stood well with the Willoughby street

Democratic leaders.
Of the sergeants transferred, Sergt.
"Rafe" Schulum was sent to Staten Island about a fortnight ago from the Fifth street station, where he had been considered a fixture. Col. Murphy's reason for shifting fixture. Col. Murphy's reason for shifting him was said to be so good that the sergeant him was said to be so good that the sergeant was advised to expect a permanent stay on Staten Island. Now that he has been brought back to Fifth street Mulberry Street says that "Big Tim" Sullivan has some pull left.

Sergt. Nally, who goes from Macdougal street to Staten Island, testified at the Civil Service Commission's investigation of the last Police Board promotions. Deputy Commissioner Devery testified at the same investigation. He said that Sergt. Nally "shook the clothes off" everybody in his precinct, explaining that he meant by this takin' a man and strippin' him an' takin' all his property and anythin' you can get "takin' a man and strippin' him an' takin' all his property and anythin' you can get for somethin' you haven't done." Probably Mr. Devery could tell why Sergt. Nally will rusticate on Staten Island.

By the transfers Sergt. Hammond will take command of the City Hall station, which is easy, and Capt. England, "the park cop," goes to the West 152d street station. Sergt. Leibers will take charge of the Central Park police. the Central Park police.

CLARE SUES FOR MONEY ADVANCED. Wants 682,000 From the Estate of His For

RUTTE, Mos., July 16.-A local sensation was caused to-day when Senator W. A. Clark his son and his bank filed claims in the District Court against the estate of the late Frank E. Corbett, aggregating nearly $32,000 for money advanced to Corbett during the last Legislature, and during the Clark investiga tion in Washington nearly two years ago. Corbett was Senator Clark's chief attorney and lieutenant during the various Senatoria campaigns, and was Speaker of the last House of Representatives. His work in that capacity was considered the direct cause of his death, which occurred a few days after the dicurnment of the Legislature. It was generally recognized that Corbett was closer o W. A. Clark and knew more of his secret than any other man. Mrs. Corbett, his widow, says the money was advanced to her husband by the Clarks to be paid out for W. A. Clark, and that every cent was disbursed in that way. It is said that Corbett gave notes for some of it only n order to make the accounts of the Clark bank straight and to account properly for the money advanced to him, and that Clark promised and intended to protect Corbett, Mrs. Corbett threatens to make sensations

Explain Why There Are N one. Magistrate Pool has decided to learn why the ferryboat companies do not provide cuspidors for the use of passengers who occupy the men's cabins on the boats plying between Manhattan and Brooklyn. Two summonses were issued and the ferry officers will have an opportunity to explain to Magistrate Pool this morning.

William Griffin, a fireman at Jahn's rice mills, Atlantic dock, in Brooklyn, saved a ten-year-old Italian boy from drowning yesterday morning at the foot of Degram yesterday morning at the foot of Degraw street. The boy, who was unable to swim, had gone into the water with a cork float as a life preserver and when a short distance from the shore lost the float and sank. Griffin, who was once a fireman in the navy, heard the cries of the other boys for help and running to the dock jumped overboard without waiting to take off his clothes. He swam to the drowning boy and quickly brought him ashore. He then went off to work as if nothing had happened.

ONE MAN'S CHILD SLAVE:

by Arthur Miller and Miller's Supposed Wife-Hiller Convicted of Abduction-Two Wemen to Be Tried on the Same Evidence. Arthur Miller of 63 East Seventh street, known among the toughs of Capt. Diamond's precinct as Kid Aaron, was convicted yesterday in the General Sessions of abducting fifteen-year-old Gussie Eslofsky of 34 Canal street and compelling her to lead an immoral life. Miller may be sent up for five years and fined $1,000. Judge McMahon has been severe in the past in imposing sentences upon his share of the dozen men who have been convicted of this kind of crime since the first of the year.

The girl told her story yesterday, from the time when she first became Miller's victim. She said that he and a woman who passed for his wife coerced her into going on the street. The woman is now awaiting trial. The Elsofsky girl's experiences on the Bowery and East Side streets began about six months ago. She was still in short dresses and wore her hair in a pigtail. Miller and his so-called wife took the money she brought in. Then they put her into a Stuyvesant street house where her stay was short, because the vice where her stay was short, because the vice crusading was brisk and the Eslofsky girl was manifestly so young that it was not deemed safe to retain her. The woman who kept the Stuyvesant street house is known as Johnson and is to be tried shortly in Special Sessions. After the girl was put out of the Johnson woman's house, the Millers sent her to Newark, where the age limit is lower than it is in this city. the Millers sent her to Newark, where the age limit is lower than it is in this city. She was too young in appearance, however, to get placed in Newark and was trought back to this city. She was again put to work on the street, and on the first night of her return dropped into the Bowery barracks of the Salvation Army where she told her story. The Gerry society was notified and took charge of the girl's case, securing the indictment and arrest of the Millers.

TUSSLE WITH HARLEM BURGLARS. Two Made a Fight When Cornered in a House -One a Ne'er Do Well Son.

Policemen Maher and Herron caught two burglars who were trying to rob the home of Samuel Cohen at 58 East 123d street yesterday morning and they had a fight to do it. Cohen is living in the country with his family for the summer and the house is closed. The tenant next door heard the burglars at work at 230 A. M. and Herron went into the house to capture them while Maher stood guard at the basement door. Herron en-countered the burglars on the second floor, where they were packing up a large bundle of plunder. The thieves took to their heels and one ran into Maher's arms at the basement door. He took the thief back into the house and called for Herron.

The second burgiar was found hidding under the dining room table. As soon as he was discovered both set upon the policemen and made them look anything but handsome before they were subdued. They were taken to Police Headquarters and there said they were Harry Hunter of Hackensack and Albert Kneiert of Hoboken. Under a "third degree" examination they confessed to robbing the same house a few weeks ago. Hunter said that a man of the name of Flagenheimer had helped them on the other job. He was arrested a week ago in Harlem, while carrying a bag of silverware.

Hunter is the son of John Hunter, who was formerly cashier of the Consolidated Gas Company. The young man is well-known in Harlem. He has led such a fast life that his father has washed his hands of him. The elder Hunter's house was robbed four years ago by two masked burglars, one of whom was his son.

In the Harlem police court yesterday Hunter and Kneiert were held in $2,500 bail each for trial and one ran into Maher's arms at the base of Review in Order to Raise More Taxes.

CHICAGO, July 16 .- In a clouchy blue suit, ninus a waistcoat, showing a wide expanse of vilted white shirt front, Mayor Harrison called upon the members of the Board of Review this afternoon and told them how he would raise the taxes if he were the board. "I'd do two things that don't seem to have been done yet," began the Mayor, confidently First, I'd go through the wealthy residence wards and summon right and left all men or women whom I even suspected of being rich. Second, I'd make a strong effort to tax the wealthy wives of poor men, because it is well known that in Chicago, as in every other big city, there are large numbers of women who have married poor men, and such women as it reduced them last year." The Mayor refused to charge any single ndividual specifically as a tax dodger. While he had his suspicions, he said, he did not absolutely know of anybody who is escaping payment on proper valuations.

NEW PEST WORRIES FARMERS. The Flying Boring Bug Is Making Havoo in

Westchester County. WHITE PLAINS, July 16.—The farmers in the northern part of Westchester county are making war on a new pest which is known as the flying boring bug. The insect is as large as a bumble bee and has a long daggershaped bill which it jabs into fruit trees, destroying the growth and ruining the fruit. The flying boring bugs were first seen in northern Orange county and to-day a cloud of them landed in many Westchester county townships. It has been said that a swarm of the bugs will destroy a whole grain field and also damage lawns, by boring into the

As to reorganization the directors have resolved to wait until the examination now being conducted by Examiner Hard of the Marquand and other transaction for United States District Attorney Burnatt has been concluded.

The Weather.

There was some relief in the drought-stricken districts yesterday. Showers occurred over a good part of Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and South Dakota and in one or two places in Minnesota and Illinois. The low pressure still hangs in a triangle reaching from southern Montana into Kansas, which means that the heated term is not fully broken. An area of increasing pressure over the Dakotas and Minnesott gave cooler weather in those States and was the cause of the showers in the other districts. It will modify the heat and probably create more showers in the Central Mississippi States to-day. There was little change in temperature in the Atlantic States.

SKITTISH BISSERT WITNESSES. Philbin Opposes Transfer of Case Lest They Be Deteriorated by Delay.

The motion of Wardman George Bissert, charged with taking money for protection of a house of ill fame, to have his trial transerred from Ceneral Sessions to the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court was argued before Justice Blanchard in the Supreme Court yesterday. In arguing for the motion Lawyer Renry W. Unger contended that the case was an involved one that presented many lice legal questions, and that it was properly a case for the higher court. His client denied the charge that he had accepted $500 from Lena Schmidt, keeper of a house in Stuyvesant street. Mr. linger pointed out that while there were a number of indictments found after the Lexow investigation note of the accused had been tried in a case involving money alleged to have been paid for protection for a house of ill fame, so that the case would practically go into new ground.

District Attorney Philbin, in opposing the motion, said that the transfer would, delay the case and it was essential that a specific trial should be had. He continued:

"My witnesses are for the most part in the House of Detention. The police have free access to that place. There is no, way in which I can get these witnesses from the police. Unless there is a quick trial I fear my witnesses may be tampered with. The most material witnesses to this case are women of ill repute. Their testimony will be given not from a sense of civic duty but from a spirit of revense. They are witnesses that could easily be approached. Therefore, I ask that the case be left where it is and I will guarantee a speedy trial.

Mr. Philbin said he would be willing to put the case on trial next week. The Court reserved decision. street. Mr. Unger pointed out that while him before Magistrate Cornell in the Torkville police court.

Dr. Hoffman said the boy had been in the cellar and had lit a match there shortly before the fire was discovered. Denzau, who works for a butcher, admitted that. He said he had gone there to deliver meat to a woman on the top floor. The cellar was dark, he said, and he lit a match to find tha speaking tube. When he threw away the match he said he watched it burn out and then stamped on it. He denied having set fire to anything.

"This is a very serious charge," said the Magistrate to the prisoner, "and I'm going to give the detectives until to-morrow afternoon to make a further investigation in the case.
Meanwhile, I regret to say, I must hold you. I will fix the amount of bail as $1,000.

"But," continued the Magistrate, "the court officers tell me that this complainant," (indicating the doctor), "is constantly running here with trivial complaints. I tell him now that if he fails to substantints the charge he has made against this boy that I will urge the boy and help him to secure legal redress."

Denzau is an intellegent boy and has a good reputation.

Southern Pacific Fights Ticket Scalpers. SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.-The Southern Pacific Company to-day filed an injunction Pacific Company to-day filed an injunction suit against the local ticket scalpers to restrain them from selling unused portions of round trip tickets issued to members of the Epworth League. A temporary injunction was granted. The railroad company argues that as the tickets are sold at greatly reduced rates and are supposed to be non-transferable, this sale of unused portions by scalpers is fraud.
